Dorothyann has sold her photography for 16 years in galleries, exhibits, and online. She is a member of the Arts Alliance of Greater Bloomington, the Bloomington Photography Club, and Female Photographers of Etsy.

Dorothyann's most meaningful achievements include documenting a devastating fire in the Klong Toey slum in Bangkok, Thailand. Her photos, along with news articles by Fr. Joe Maier, helped raise funds for the rebuilding of family homes and businesses. She also designed a music CD, CD cover, and 12-page insert for Irish musician Brenda Castles' album 'Indeedin You Needn't Bother'.

Hope Springs Eternal, 16 x 20 in., photograph, 2024

Balanced on uplifted arms, a child soaks in a summer shower. No worries about floods, hail, tornados, or drought. Wildfires and failing crops, all afar in time and place. Not this glorious day!

The youth are challenged to solve our environmental problems. In urgent response, the 16-year-old climate activist, Greta Thunberg, scolded the 2019 UN Climate Action Summit: “This is all wrong!” she warned. “You have stolen my dreams and my childhood with your empty words.”

We need to join with our children, and do what must to be done—today, for “Hope springs eternal”* on this glorious day!
